What do today's students need to know?

Everything that you are being taught and told in class is going to be applicable to your success in the future. It is hard to believe that when you are in school, but once you get out into the world, you can apply everything you are learning now. If you have goals for the future, don't ever let them go. Lastly, I'd recommend that if you are interested in aviation, it's a great field and feel free to get in contact with me.
